Welcome

Welcome to Special Concurrence! I have designed this blog to serve as a resource for attorneys, clients, and anyone else interested in the law. Here, I and other members of the Williams Mullen Appellate Group will examine recent appellate decisions and consider their practical and theoretical implications. While the blog's scope is national, it will focus primarily on cases decided by the Fourth Circuit, Supreme Court of Virginia, and North Carolina appellate courts. With occasional commentary, and features on appellate practice, we hope to provide a useful resource and an interesting exposition of the law.
