

Humanscale v. CompX Jury Trial

02.21.2010

On Friday, February 19, Humanscale and CompX completed the first week of a jury trial in the Richmond Division of the EDVA, before Judge Spencer. See our previous post on the case here. At issue are CompX's claims of infringement of the '054 and '767 patents, and Humanscale's counterclaims of noninfringement and invalidity. CompX rested on the third day, and the Court denied all of the Humanscale's motions for judgment as a matter of law, save one. The Court granted Humanscale's motion on willfulness. Humanscale started presenting evidence on Friday, and the trial resumes on Monday, February 22.

Please click here to return to the homepage of the Rocket Docket IP Litigation Blog.

Related People