Lauren represents clients in all types and phases of disputes involving their businesses, with a particular emphasis on eDiscovery issues. She is intimately familiar with electronic discovery practices in federal and state court and provides guidance in crafting defensible and uniform approaches to records management and retention, litigation hold implementation, legacy data disposal and migration and outside vendor relationships and costs. Lauren has experience negotiating ESI protocols and has utilized the latest technology tools to analyze, review, produce and present evidence. Lauren is a frequent speaker and writer on eDiscovery issues. She is a member of Working Group I on Electronic Document Retention and Production of The Sedona Conference.

Lauren also has experience conducting government and internal investigations in matters involving securities and banking regulation, regulatory inquiries and potential Foreign Corrupt Practices Act violations. Her litigation experience includes civil rights and constitutional law claims under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 and representing clients in personal injury, property and business disputes.

Lauren is a member of the Virginia Bar Association and the Richmond Bar Association. She is a member of the bars of various federal courts, including the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit, the U.S. District Courts for the Eastern and Western Districts of Virginia and the U.S. Bankruptcy Court for the Eastern District of Virginia. Lauren is also a member of the Virginia State Bar.

Lauren received her Juris Doctor Degree, magna cum laude, from the University of Richmond School of Law. While in law school, she served as executive editor of the University of Richmond Law Review. She earned her Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Virginia.
