

Foreign Corrupt Practices Act

Our clients turn to us when they need counsel with significant experience in matters involving the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA) and other anti-corruption laws. The firm's professionals have served as federal prosecutors, as defense counsel, and as general corporate and securities counsel to public and regulated companies, in numerous matters involving the FCPA. For over three decades, we have represented clients in FCPA matters including:

- criminal investigations and defense
- Congressional investigations
- internal corporate investigations
- anti-corruption compliance programs
- FCPA and anti-corruption training for employees
- due diligence on overseas transactions, joint ventures, and third parties
- advising management, board and audit committees regarding a wide range of specific FCPA or anticorruption questions and issues

Our reach goes wherever our client's business goes. As a result, our professionals have conducted FCPA internal investigations, risk assessments, due diligence and training on the ground in many different countries in the Americas, Asia, Africa and Europe. We have represented large public companies, but also mid- and small-cap public and private companies and individuals, spanning industries including telecommunications, agriculture, government contracts, oil and gas, retail, and transportation and logistics.

We leverage our attorneys' broad range of experience to provide clients with day-to-day anti-corruption counseling, advice about establishing or maintaining compliance programs, and to represent clients in internal investigations, government investigations and enforcement actions, due diligence and risk assessments.

Related News

- DOJ & SEC Release Long Awaited FCPA Guidance
- Review - Legal Checklist for International Defense Transactions
- Legal Checklist for International Defense Transactions

- Africa's Golden Opportunity To Engage the United States on Trade and Investment at the U.S. - Africa Leaders Summit
- Addressing Public Corruption is Fundamental to Trade Facilitation
- The DOJ's Revised FCPA Corporate Enforcement Policy: A New Blueprint for Corporate Cooperation and Credit
- Williams Mullen Strengthens International Practice with Addition of Christopher H. Skinner

Related Events

- German-American Business Luncheon
- Virginia Maritime Association's International Trade Symposium
- Export University 101
- Anti-Corruption Conference: Corruption in Indonesia - Challenges and Solutions
- AAEI's Anti-Corruption Roundtable Event
- Chief Risk/Chief Compliance Officer Roundtable
- Beyond the Legalese: Assessing and Minimizing Bribery and Corruption Risks of Doing Business Abroad
- Webinar - DOJ and SEC Release FCPA Enforcement Guidance: What Does Your Company Do Now?

Related Attorneys

- Anthony H. Anikeeff ? 703.760.5206 ? aanikeeff@williamsmullen.com
- David C. Burton ? 757.473.5354 ? dburton@williamsmullen.com
- Patrick R. Hanes ? 757.629.0615 ? phanes@williamsmullen.com
- Andrew O. "Andy" Mathews ? 804.420.6416 ? amathews@williamsmullen.com
- Christopher H. Skinner ? 202.293.8129 ? cskinner@williamsmullen.com
- Robert E. Spicer, Jr. ? 804.420.6432 ? rspicer@williamsmullen.com