

Tony Anikeeff quoted in the Washington Post about the government shutdown's effect on contractors

10.21.2013

The Washington Post spoke to Williams Mullen's Government Contracts co-chair Tony Anikeeff about how the government shutdown, which temporarily shuttered the GAO, led to a backlog of contractors' bid protests. The story was published in the Capital Business section here. The piece was also re-published on the news website Delaware Online here
