

Valerie Long Quoted by Charlottesville Tomorrow about a Developer's Request to Build Fewer Homes in a Community

12.16.2015

Valerie Long, Chair of Williams Mullen's Land Use Practice, was quoted by Charlottesville Tomorrow in a story about a developer's request to build fewer homes in a new Albemarle County development. Due to market demands, the minimum number of homes in the development is now 1,000 homes instead of the original 1,600. Read the article here.
