

Joe Pope Quoted by Food Safety News About Latest in Peanut Corporation of America Case

12.01.2016

In 2014, Stewart Parnell, Michael Parnell and Mary Wilkerson were convicted on various charges after a federal investigation of a 2008 nationwide salmonella outbreak that was traced to the Peanut Corporation of America's plant in Georgia. Joe Pope was quoted by Food Safety News in an article about the latest developments in the case, which include the recent filing of appeal briefs asking for their convictions and sentences to be overturned. To read the article, click here. To read more on the filed briefs, click here.

Related People

Related Services

- Litigation