

An Introduction to North Carolina Renewable Energy Project Development

02.06.2017

On Feb. 8, Bob Riley and Brad Nowak will attend the North Carolina Sustainable Energy Association's Introduction to North Carolina Renewable Energy Project Development CLE in Raleigh. The event will explore the multiple considerations involved in a renewable energy project, including site control, permitting, contracting to sell the project's output, the financing arrangements of the project, and the steps of project interconnection to the electric grid.
