

Amy Pruett Discusses Songwriter Association's Copyright Infringement Lawsuit

11.12.2018

Last week, ASCAP, the organization that collects royalties for songwriters and artists, filed a federal lawsuit against 12 establishments for copyright infringement relating to the license needed to play music at a bar or restaurant. One of the establishments is located in Virginia Beach, and Williams Mullen attorney Amy Pruett discussed the lawsuit in an interview with WAVY-10. Click below to read the article and watch the video.

WAVY-10: Copyright infringement lawsuit could cost Oceanfront bar thousands

Related People

- Amy G. Pruett – 434.951.5720 – apruett@williamsmullen.com

Related Services

- Intellectual Property
- Copyrights
- Trademarks
- Entertainment & Sports Law
- Intellectual Property Litigation