

Pat Gottschalk Co-Authors RTD Op-Ed on Preparing Virginia Students for Tomorrow's Workforce

07.15.2019

On July 13, 2019, the Richmond Times-Dispatch published an op-ed co-authored by Williams Mullen partner Pat Gottschalk, who serves as chair of the ChamberRVA board, and Kim Scheeler, president and CEO of ChamberRVA, about preparing today's Virginia students for the workforce of tomorrow.

"We have two choices for building our future workforce: We can educate the students in our community or we can attract the talent from other communities. While we are becoming an attractive place for millennials, we do our community a disservice if we don't prepare our young people growing up here for a successful future."
