

Virginia Department of Labor and Industry's Emergency Temporary Standard: What Employers Need to Know During COVID-19

08.04.2020

Host: Virginia Bankers Association

David Burton, a partner in Williams Mullen's Labor, Employment & Immigration practice, will summarize key components of the Virginia Department of Labor and Industry's Emergency Temporary Standard governing employers' obligations to employees that became effective on July 27, 2020.

Topics include:

- Developing a strategy for characterizing your employees into the risk categories.
- Return to work policies and procedures that all employers must follow.
- Types of workplaces that fall into risk exposures.
- The anti-retaliation provisions of the Emergency Temporary Standard that all employers must follow.

Related People

- David C. Burton ? 757.473.5354 ? dburton@williamsmullen.com

Related Services

- Labor, Employment & Immigration